Shaping A Just Future Through Research And Advocacy

Azanian Public Policy Institute (APPI) is a non-profit organization founded by Zimasa Ranisi, a professional attorney, who sought to create a way to give ordinary South African's more equitable access justice.

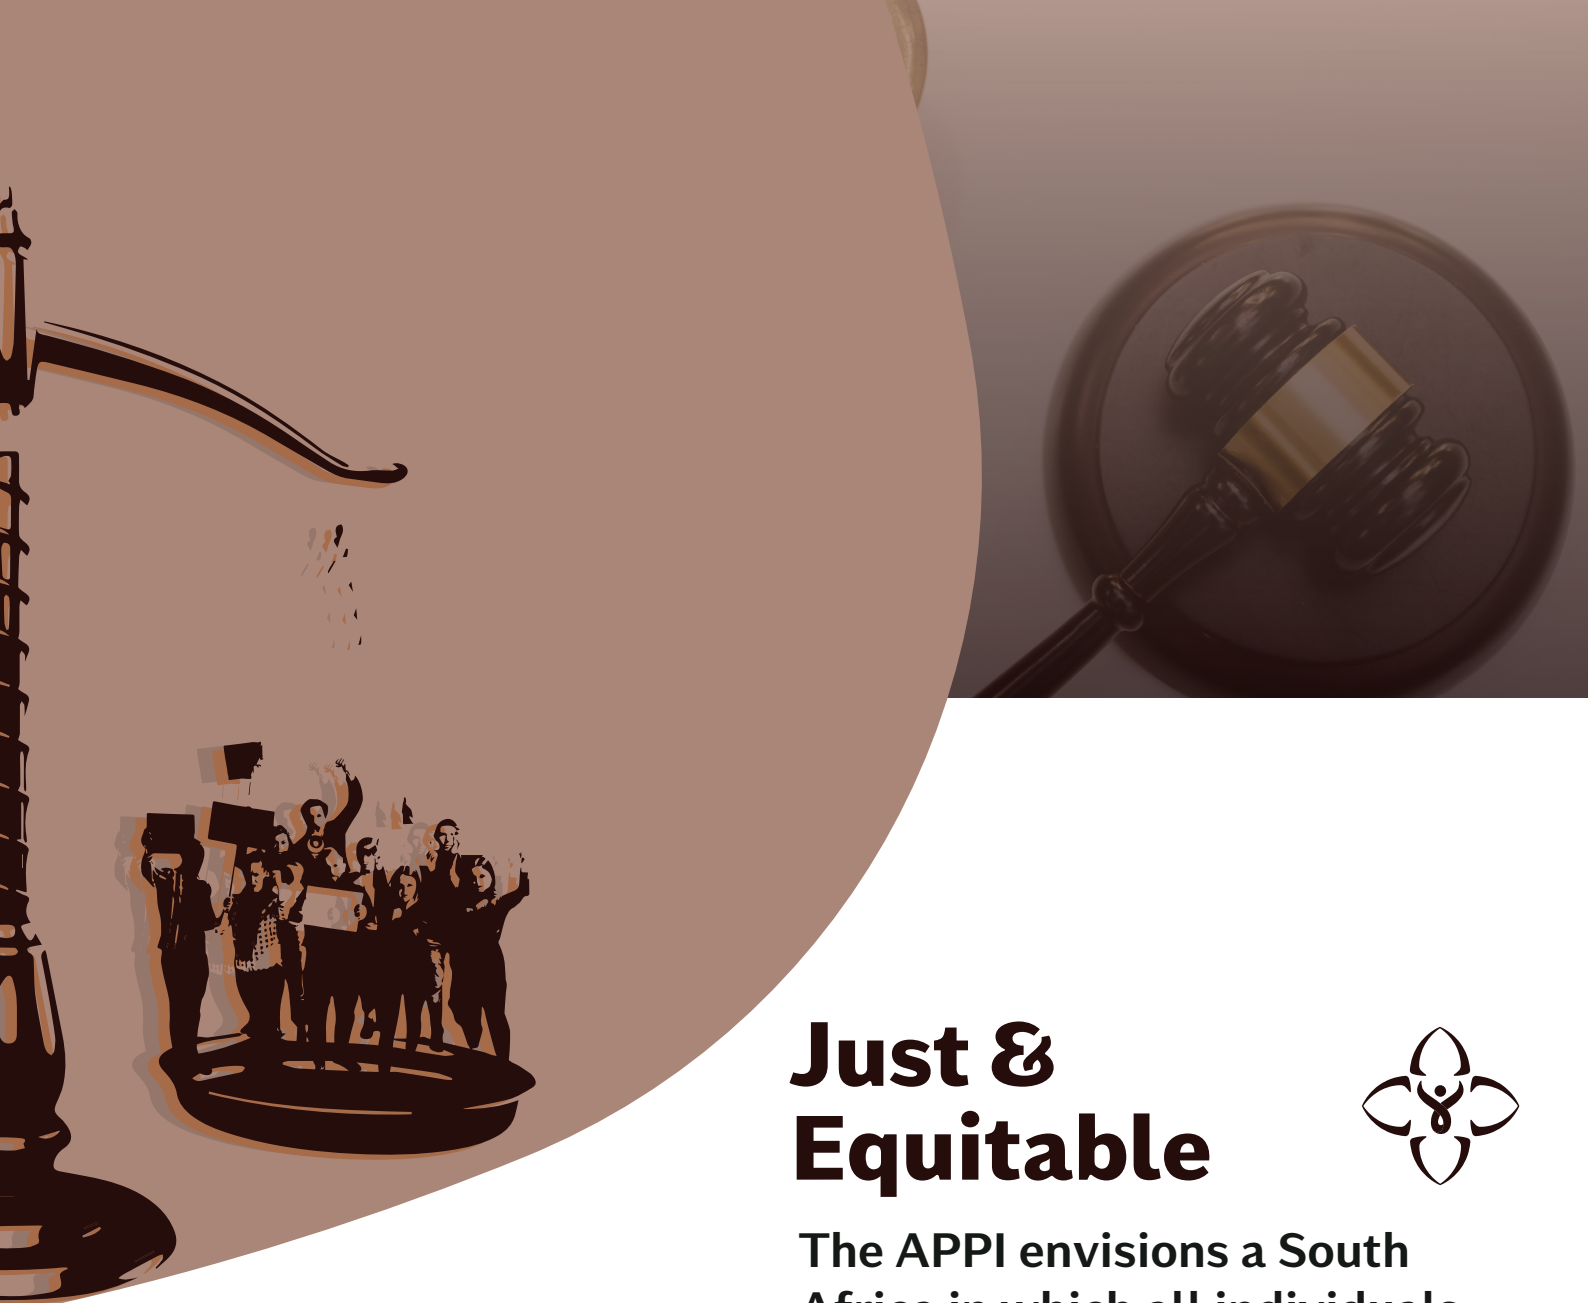

Azanian jurisprudence philosophy forms the basis of our institute's guiding principles and vision. Inspired by a philosophy that champions equity, justice, and comprehensive societal understanding, we boldly embark on a journey to drive meaningful change.

Our institute exists as a hub for thinkers with an unwavering commitment to fostering positive transformation.

A Catalyst for Change

APPI is rooted in rigorous research, evidence-based analysis, and a commitment to social justice. We operate with transparency, integrity, and a focus on collaboration, both within our organization and with external stakeholders. We foster a culture of inclusivity and diversity, recognizing and respecting the different experiences, perspectives, and voices of the communities we aim to serve. APPI values open dialogue, critical thinking, and a multidisciplinary approach to policy advocacy.

Our Mission

Azanian Public Policy Initiative (APPI) is a non-profit research and policy advocacy organization. Our mission is to research pertinent issues affecting everyday people in order to effect meaningful change in the laws and policies that impact their lives.

Just & Equitable

The APPI envisions a South Africa in which all individuals, particularly the most marginalised elements of society, have access to fair, just, and laws and regulations that promote social, economic, and political equality.

Utilising an intersectional framework that encompasses Azanian philosophy and jurisprudence to analyse and bring attention to these policy issues. APPI exists to advocate for the review and change of specific regulations to create a fairer, more equitable and just society.

Inclusive And Collective Governance Thinking

APPI's value lies in its intersectional analysis, research excellence, policy advocacy, public awareness, and collaborative approach. By leveraging the lenses of Azanian philosophy and jurisprudence, we strive to create a more equitable and just society in South Africa, where the laws and regulations are responsive to the needs of all people.

01 Intersectional Analysis

APPI provides a unique value by employing the intersectional lenses of Azanian philosophy and jurisprudence in its approach. This approach allows us to understand policy issues within the broader social, economic, and historical contexts of South Africa, addressing systemic inequalities and power imbalances.

02 Research Excellence

APPI delivers high-quality research that informs evidence-based policy recommendations. Our research is rooted in rigorous methodologies, ensuring credibility and reliability in our analysis.

03 Policy Advocacy

Through our advocacy efforts, APPI will provide a platform for ordinary people to have their voices heard and to advocate for policy change. We will amplify their concerns and advocate for equitable and just laws and regulations that benefit all members of society.

04 Collaborative Approach

APPI actively seeks collaborations with like-minded organizations, scholars, activists, and community leaders. By working together, we strengthen our collective impact and enhance the effectiveness of our advocacy efforts.

05 Public Awareness and Education

APPI aims to play a vital role in raising public awareness about policy issues and fostering understanding among the broader population. We will be engaging in educational initiatives, media campaigns, and community outreach programs to empower individuals with knowledge and inspire collective action.

Advocating for Meaningful Change

At the heart of the Advocacy and Policy Institute (APPI) lies a steadfast commitment to unraveling the intricacies of policies that cast shadows over the lives of everyday South Africans. Our mission is clear: to scrutinize and dissect policies with detrimental effects, with the ultimate goal of shedding light on these issues and instigating impactful change.

Amplifying the Voices of the Unheard

We stand as a platform for those whose voices might otherwise remain unheard. Our second objective is to amplify the stories, struggles, and experiences of individuals and communities affected by these policies. Through our advocacy, we give voice to those who have been silenced, enabling their narratives to influence the discourse surrounding policy decisions.
